Appendix A.
General Explanation

CENSUS COVERAGE AND METHODOLOGY

Structure and method of enumeration. Firms in the 1992 Census of Retail Trade were divided into the nonmail universe and mail universe. The coverage and the method of obtaining census information from each follow:

1. The nonmail universe consisted of firms which were not required to file a regular census return and included:

   a. All nonemployers, i.e., all firms with no paid employment during 1992. Sales information for these firms was obtained from administrative records of other Federal agencies. Although consisting of many firms, nonemployers account for less than 5 percent of total retail sales.

      The census included only those retail nonemployer firms which reported a sales volume of $1,000 or more during 1992.

      Data on nonemployers are provided in subsequent 1992 Census of Retail Trade reports; Nonemployer Statistics (RC92-N-1) and Selected Statistics (RC92-SP-1).

   b. Selected small employers, i.e., single-establishment firms with payroll below a specified cutoff. (The term ''employers'' refers to all business firms with one or more paid employees at any time during 1992 as shown in the active administrative records of other Federal agencies.) Although the payroll cutoff varied by kind of business, small employers generally included firms with one to four employees and represented about 10 percent of total retail sales of establishments covered in the census.

      Data on sales, payroll, and employment for employer firms below the payroll cutoff were derived or estimated from administrative records of other Federal agencies except for a sample of small employer firms. This sample was included in the mail universe.

2. The mail universe consisted of firms for which information was obtained by means of a mail canvass and included:

   a. Large employers; i.e., all multiestablishment firms and all employer firms above the payroll size cutoff referred to in section 1b. Within this category, a report of company organization was conducted periodically to identify firms which operated establishments at more than one location and to obtain information on payroll and mid-March employment at each location. The 1991 Report of Company Organization was used as a coverage check in the census. In the 1992 census, all multiestablishment firms were asked to notify the Census Bureau of any establishments for which a form was not received. Report forms were subsequently provided to the firms for these establishments.

   b. A sample of small employer firms referred to in section 1b. These firms were sent the census mailing packages containing the appropriate 1992 questionnaire. For the retail trade sector, the overall sample of small employer firms was 20.6 percent which varied by kind of business.

Method of classifying kinds of business. The retail trade classifications for all establishments were based on the Standard Industrial Classification Manual: 1987[1] (SIC). However, the method of assigning these classifications, and the level of detail at which establishments were classified, differed between the nonmail and mail universe as follows:

1. The nonmail universe.

   a. Nonemployers were classified on the basis of information obtained from administrative records of other Federal agencies.

   b. Selected small employers were classified on the basis of the most current census kind-of-business classification available from one of the Census Bureau's current sample surveys or the 1987 census. Otherwise, the classification was obtained from administrative records of other Federal agencies.

      If the census or administrative record classifications proved inadequate (none corresponded to a 1992 census classification in the detail required for employers), the firm was sent a brief inquiry requesting information necessary to assign a 1992 census kind-of-business code.

2. Establishments in the mail universe were classified on the basis of their self-designation, answers to questions on sales by merchandise line, and other special inquiries.

COMPARABILITY OF THE 1987 AND 1992 CENSUSES

The 1987 and 1992 censuses were conducted under similar conditions and procedures except for the following:

Geographic areas. The boundaries of a number of areas for which data are shown in the 1992 census are not the same as in the 1987 census because of annexations; other boundary changes; and redefinitions of metropolitan statistical areas (MSA's), primary metropolitan statistical areas (PMSA's), and consolidated metropolitan statistical areas (CMSA's).[2] In addition, data for consolidated cities are included in the 1992 census.

Data for special economic urban areas (SEUA's) with 10,000 inhabitants or more in Michigan, Minnesota, New York, and Wisconsin qualified for publication in the 1992 census. This included townships in Michigan and Minnesota and towns in New York and Wisconsin. However, Minnesota did not have any townships that met the publication criteria.

TREATMENT OF NONRESPONSE

Census reports included two different types of inquiries, "basic" and "special." Basic or general inquiries, which included location, kind of business, sales, payroll, number of employees, and legal form of organization, were available from a combination of sources for all establishments. (See "Census of Retail Trade" in the Introduction.) Special inquiries, tailored to the particular kinds of business covered by the report, were available only from establishments in the mail universe which completed the appropriate inquiries on the questionnaire. (See appendix J for examples of special inquiries.)

Data for special inquiries in this report have been expanded in most tables to account for establishments which did not respond to the particular inquiry for which data are presented. Unless otherwise noted in the specific table, data for these special inquiries have been expanded in direct relationship to total sales. It is assumed that the characteristics of establishments not responding to the particular special inquiry are the same as establishments with equal sales in the same category (publication table line) that did respond to the inquiry.

All tables in which data are expanded to account for nonrespondents include a "coverage" indicator for each publication category, which shows the sales of establishments responding to the special inquiry as a percent of total sales of all establishments for which data are shown. Unless otherwise noted in the specific table, data are shown in this report only for categories for which the coverage, or level of response, was 60 percent or higher.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS

Establishments. An establishment is a single physical location in which business is conducted. It is not necessarily identical with a company or enterprise, which may consist of one establishment or more. Census of retail trade figures represent a summary of reports for individual establishments rather than companies. For cases where a census report was received, separate information was obtained for each location where business was conducted. When administrative records of other Federal agencies were used instead of a census report, no information was available on the number of locations operated. For these cases, only one establishment was tallied in the publications. Consequently, the number of establishments published in the 1992 Census of Retail Trade is understated.

An attempt was made to measure a part of this understatement by analyzing the sample of small employers. There were 95,254 such retail firms in business at any time during 1992. Of this number, 79,885 responded to the number of locations inquiry and reported operations at 83,877 locations. By weighing these variables and assuming that firms in the sample that did not return their report would respond as those that did report, this sample representing 604,683 firms would have operated a total of 621,767 establishments.

The count of establishments represents those in business at any time during 1992. Appendix G provides a comparison of the number of establishments active any time during the year versus the number in business at the end of the year.

When two activities or more were carried on at a single location under a single ownership, all activities were grouped together as a single establishment. The entire establishment was classified on the basis of its major activity and all data for it were included in that classification. However, when distinct and separate economic activities (for which different industry classification codes were appropriate) were conducted at a single location under a single ownership, and when conditions prescribed by the SIC manual for recognizing the existence of more than one establishment were met, separate establishment reports for each of the different activities were obtained in the census.

Leased departments are treated as separate establishments and are classified according to the kind of business they conduct. For example, a leased department selling shoes within a department store should be considered a separate retail establishment under the "shoe store" classification.

Firms. A firm is a business organization or entity consisting of one domestic establishment (location) or more under common ownership or control. All establishments of subsidiary firms are included as part of the owning or controlling firm. For the economic census, the terms ''firm'' and ''company'' are synonymous.

Sales. Sales include merchandise sold for cash or credit at retail and wholesale by establishments primarily engaged in retail trade; amounts received from customers for layaway purchases; receipts from rental or leasing of vehicles, equipment, instruments, tools, etc.; receipts for delivery, installation, maintenance, repair, alteration, storage, and other services; the total value of service contracts; and gasoline, liquor, tobacco, and other excise taxes which are paid by the manufacturer or wholesaler and passed on to the retailer.

Sales are net after deductions for refunds and allowances for merchandise returned by customers. Trade-in allowances are not deducted from total sales. Total sales do not include carrying or other credit charges; sales (or other) taxes collected from customers and forwarded to taxing authorities; commissions from vending machine operators; sales and receipts of departments or concessions operated by other firms; commissions or receipts from the sale of government lottery tickets; installment payments from leasing of vehicles, equipment, instruments, tools, etc. marketed under capital, finance, or full payout leases; and nonoperating income from such sources as investments, rental or sale of real estate, etc.

Sales in this report do not include retail sales made by manufacturers, wholesalers, service establishments, or other businesses whose primary activity is other than retail trade. They do include receipts other than from the sale of merchandise at retail, e.g., service receipts, sales to industrial users, and sales to other retailers, by establishments primarily engaged in retail trade.

Annual payroll. Payroll includes all forms of compensation such as salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses, vacation allowances, sick-leave pay, employee contributions to qualified pension plans, and the value of payments in kind (e.g., free meals and lodgings) paid during the year to all employees. Tips and gratuities received by employees from patrons and reported to employers are included. For corporations, payroll includes amounts paid to officers and executives; for unincorporated businesses, it does not include profit or other compensation of proprietors or partners. Payroll is reported before deductions for social security, income tax, insurance, union dues, etc. This definition of payroll is the same as that used by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) on form 941.

First-quarter payroll. This item consists of payroll, as defined above, paid to persons employed at any time during the quarter January to March 1992.

Paid employees for pay period including March 12. Paid employees consist of the full- and part-time employees, including salaried officers and executives of corporations, who were on the payroll during the pay period including March 12. Included are employees on paid sick leave, paid holidays, and paid vacations; not included are proprietors and partners of unincorporated businesses. The definition of paid employees is the same as that used on IRS form 941.

Auxiliary establishments. Each company included in this census was asked to identify and separately report auxiliary locations whose primary functions were to manage, administer, service, or support the activities of the other establishments of the company. Data presented in this report do not include auxiliary establishments. Data for auxiliaries are presented in a subsequent report issued as part of the 1992 Enterprise Statistics reports.

KIND-OF-BUSINESS CLASSIFICATIONS

Retail trade, SIC major groups 52 through 59 in the SIC manual, includes establishments primarily engaged in selling merchandise for personal or household consumption and rendering services incidental to the sale of the goods. Exceptions to this general rule are lumber yards; paint, glass, and wallpaper stores; typewriter stores; stationery stores; and gasoline service stations, which sell to both the general public for personal and household consumption and to businesses. These types of stores are included in retail trade even if a higher proportion of their sales is made to other than individuals for personal or household consumption. However, such establishments that sell their products only to institutional or industrial users and to other wholesalers and establishments that sell similar merchandise for use exclusively by business establishments are classified in wholesale trade.

Other important characteristics of retail trade establishments are that they are usually places of business; they are engaged in activities to attract the general public to buy; they buy or receive as well as sell merchandise; they may process their products, although processing is incidental or subordinate to selling; and they are considered as retail in the trade. Not all of these characteristics need be present and some are modified by trade practice.

The retail trade industries were covered in the 1992 Economic and Agriculture Census. However, retail establishments of the following types were excluded from census coverage:

1. Federal, State, and local government agencies that sold merchandise, other than liquor stores operated by State and local governments

2. Officers' clubs and officers' open messes (classified based on primary activity with a T/ O code of 90); and public school lunch programs except those which operated on a fee or contract basis (classified based on primary activity with a T/ O code of 55)

The following types of retail establishments were covered in the census:

1. Appliance stores owned by public utilities if the establishments were primarily engaged in selling appliances to customers
2. Liquor stores operated by State and local governments

Establishments covered by the census were assigned kind-of-business classifications according to the industry classifications defined in the 1987 SIC manual. When a more detailed classification than defined in the SIC manual was needed, additional kinds of business were identified within a SIC industry.

In general, retail establishments were classified according to the principal lines of commodities sold (groceries, hardware, etc.), or the usual trade designation (drug store, cigar store, etc.).

Kind-of-business classifications are not interchangeable with commodity classifications; most businesses sell several kinds of commodities. The kind-of-business code generally reflects either the individual commodity or the commodity group which is the primary source of the establishment's business. Thus, the classification of establishments by kind of business generally does not make it possible to determine either the number of establishments handling a particular commodity or the sales of that commodity. For example, the food stores classification excludes stores selling food if the sale of food is not the primary source of receipts; moreover, even though stores are classified as food stores, some of their receipts may be derived from the sale of nonfood products. (Information on the extent to which various broad groups of commodities or merchandise lines are sold by different kinds of business is available in the 1992 Census of Retail Trade report, Merchandise Line Sales, RC92-S-3.)

Building Materials and Garden Supplies Stores (SIC Major Group 52)

This major group includes retail establishments primarily engaged in selling lumber and other building materials; paint, glass, and wallpaper; hardware; nursery stock; lawn and garden supplies; and manufactured (mobile) homes. It includes lumber and other building materials dealers and paint, glass, and wallpaper stores selling to the general public, even if sales to contractors account for a larger proportion of total sales; these establishments are known as retail in the trade. Establishments primarily selling these products but not selling to the general public are classified in wholesale trade.

Lumber and other building materials dealers (SIC 521). Establishments primarily engaged in selling lumber, or lumber and a general line of building materials, to the general public. While these establishments may also sell to contractors, they are known as retail in the trade, even if sales to contractors account for a higher proportion of the sales. The lumber they sell may include rough and dressed lumber, flooring, molding, doors, sashes, frames, and other millwork. The building materials may include roofing, siding, shingles, wallboard, paint, brick, tile, cement, sand, gravel, and other building materials and supplies. For lumber yards, at least 32 percent of sales must be from the sale of lumber and millwork. Hardware is often an important line of retail lumber and building materials dealers. Also included in this group are home centers. These are retail establishments that sell both lumber and building materials and hardware. Additionally, they must sell at least 5 of the following merchandise lines: housewares, tools (power and/ or hand), floor coverings, electrical supplies, kitchen cabinets, plumbing and bath supplies, lawn and garden products, paints and/ or sundries, windows and/ or doors, roofing, wallcoverings, ceiling products and materials, lawn and garden supplies, and appliances. Establishments not selling to the general public or known in the trade as wholesale are classified in SIC 503.

Paint, glass, and wallpaper stores (SIC 523). Establishments primarily engaged in selling paint, glass, and wallpaper, or any combination of these lines, to the general public. While these establishments may also sell to contractors, they are known as retail in the trade, even if sales to contractors account for a higher proportion of the sales. Establishments which do not sell to the general public are classified in wholesale trade.

Hardware stores (SIC 525). Establishments primarily engaged in selling a number of basic hardware lines, such as tools, builders' hardware, locks and other security hardware, paint and glass, housewares, household appliances, cutlery, and building materials, no one of which accounts for 50 percent or more of the sales of the establishments.

Retail nurseries, lawn and garden supply stores (SIC 526). Establishments primarily engaged in selling trees, shrubs, other plants, seeds, bulbs, mulches, soil conditioners, fertilizers, pesticides, garden tools, and other garden supplies to the general public. These establishments primarily sell products purchased from others, but may sell some plants which they grow themselves. Establishments primarily engaged in growing trees, shrubs, other plants, seeds, and bulbs are classified in SIC major group 01, and those growing Christmas trees are classified in SIC major group 08.

Manufactured (mobile) home dealers (SIC 527). Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of new and used mobile homes, parts and equipment. Establishments primarily selling travel trailers and campers are classified in SIC 5561 and those primarily selling utility trailers are classified in SIC 5599.

General Merchandise Stores (SIC Major Group 53)

This major group includes retail stores which sell a number of lines of merchandise, such as dry goods, apparel and accessories, furniture and homefurnishings, small wares, hardware, and food. The stores included in this group are known as department stores, variety stores, general merchandise stores, catalog showrooms, warehouse clubs, and general stores. Establishments primarily engaged in selling used general merchandise are classified in SIC 593, and those selling general merchandise by mail, vending machine, or direct selling are classified in SIC 596.

Department stores (SIC 531). Retail stores normally having 50 employees or more, having sales of apparel and soft goods combined amounting to 20 percent or more of total sales, and selling each of the following groups of merchandise:

1. Household linens, dry goods, furniture, homefurnishings, appliances, and radio and TV sets
2. A general line of apparel for the family

The employment and lines of merchandise sold in leased departments are both taken into account when classifying a department store.

To qualify as a department store, sales of each of the lines listed above must be less than 80 percent of total store sales. An establishment with total sales of $10 million or more is classified as a department store even if sales of one of the merchandise lines listed above exceed the maximum percent of total sales, provided that the sales of the other group is $1 million or more. Relatively few stores are included in this classification as a result of this special rule and most of those which are would otherwise have been classified in the apparel group (SIC major group 56).

Due to the relatively high level of leased department activity in department stores, department store sales have been separately presented for the following classifications:

Department stores (including leased depts.)

Department stores (excluding leased depts.)

For States and for areas with 10,000 retail establishments or more, the following subcategories of department stores also are presented:

Variety stores (SIC 533). Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of a variety of merchandise in the low and popular price ranges. Sales usually are made on a cash-and-carry basis, with the open selling method of display and customer selection of merchandise. These stores generally do not carry a complete line of merchandise, are not departmentalized, do not carry their own charge service, and do not deliver merchandise.

Miscellaneous general merchandise stores (SIC 539). Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of a general line of apparel, dry goods, hardware, housewares or homefurnishings, groceries, and other lines in limited amounts. Stores selling commodities covered in the definition for department stores but normally having less than 50 employees, and stores usually known as country or general stores are included here. Also included are most catalog showrooms. Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sales of merchandise by catalog, mail, or television order are classified in SIC 5961.

Warehouse clubs (SIC 539 pt.). Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of a medium variety of canned goods, dairy products, pre-packaged meats, and other grocery items in limited amounts. They also may sell newspapers, magazines, refreshment items, cigarettes, beer, wine, and novelties. Customers normally utilize a convenience store to purchase a few items, whereas grocery stores are utilized for large, volume purchases. Convenience stores normally have a maximum of two check-out counters; less than 2,500 square feet of total under-roof floor space; a small, private parking lot; and hours of operation which normally extend beyond those of traditional grocery stores. Establishments primarily selling convenience store items but also selling gasoline are classified in kind of business 541130.

Convenience food/ gasoline stores (SIC 541 pt.). These are establishments that satisfy the criteria of a convenience food store and also sell gasoline; however, gasoline sales may not exceed 49 percent of total sales. Establishments selling convenience store items but primarily selling gasoline are classified in kind of business 554130.

Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of packaged dairy products such as milk, cream, butter, cheese, and related products to over-the-counter customers. Ice cream and frozen yogurt stands are classified in SIC 5812 and establishments selling ice cream and similar products from trucks or wagons are classified in SIC 5963. Gasoline service stations (SIC 554). Establishments primarily engaged in selling gasoline and automotive lubricants. These establishments frequently sell other merchandise such as tires, batteries, accessories, and other automobile parts or perform minor repair work. Establishments called garages but deriving more than half of their receipts from the sale of gasoline and automotive lubricants are included. Introduction to the Economic Census

PURPOSES AND USES OF THE ECONOMIC CENSUS

The economic census is the major source of facts about the structure and functioning of the Nation's economy. It provides essential information for government, business, industry, and the general public.

The economic census furnishes an important part of the framework for such composite measures as the gross domestic product, input/output measures, production and price indexes, and other statistical series that measure short-term changes in economic conditions.

Policymaking agencies of the Federal Government use the data, especially in monitoring economic activity and providing assistance to business.

State and local governments use the data to assess business activities and tax bases within their jurisdictions and to develop programs to attract business.

Trade associations study trends in their own and competing industries and keep their members informed of market changes.

Individual businesses use the data to locate potential markets and to analyze their own production and sales performance relative to industry or area averages.

AUTHORITY AND SCOPE

Title 13 of the United States Code (sections 131, 191, and 224) directs the Census Bureau to take the economic census every 5 years, covering years ending in 2 and 7. The 1992 Economic Census consists of the following eight censuses:

- Census of Retail Trade
- Census of Wholesale Trade
- Census of Service Industries
- Census of Financial, Insurance, and Real Estate Industries
- Census of Transportation, Communications, and Utilities
- Census of Manufactures
- Census of Mineral Industries
- Census of Construction Industries

Special programs also cover enterprise statistics and minority-owned and women-owned businesses. (The 1992 Census of Agriculture and 1992 Census of Governments are conducted separately.) The next economic census is scheduled to be taken in 1998 covering the year 1997.

AVAILABILITY OF THE DATA

The results of the economic census are available in printed reports for sale by the U.S. Government Printing Office and on compact discs for sale by the Census Bureau. Order forms for all types of products are available on request from Customer Services, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233-8300. A more complete description of publications being issued from this census is on the inside back cover of this document.

Census facts are also widely disseminated by trade associations, business journals, and newspapers. Volumes containing census statistics are available in most major public and college libraries. Finally, State data centers in every State as well as business and industry data centers in many States also supply economic census statistics.

WHAT'S NEW IN 1992

The 1992 Economic Census covers more of the economy than any previous census. New for 1992 are data on communications, utilities, financial, insurance, and real estate, as well as coverage of more transportation industries. The economic, agriculture, and governments censuses now collectively cover nearly 98 percent of all economic activity.

Among other changes, new 1992 definitions affect the boundaries of about a third of all metropolitan areas. Also, the Survey of Women-Owned Businesses has now been expanded to include all corporations.

HISTORICAL INFORMATION

The economic census has been taken as an integrated program at 5-year intervals since 1967 and before that for 1963, 1958, and 1954. Prior to that time, the individual subcomponents of the economic census were taken separately at varying intervals.

The economic census traces its beginnings to the 1810 Decennial Census, when questions on manufacturing were included with those for population. Coverage of economic activities was expanded for 1840 and subsequent censuses to include mining and some commercial activities. In 1902, Congress established a permanent Census Bureau and directed that a census of manufactures be taken every 5 years. The 1905 Manufactures Census was the first time a census was taken apart from the regular every-10-year population census.

The first census of business was taken in 1930, covering 1929. Initially it covered retail and wholesale trade and construction industries, but it was broadened in 1933 to include some of the service trades.

The 1954 Economic Census was the first census to be fully integrated—providing comparable census data across economic sectors, using consistent time periods, concepts, definitions, classifications, and reporting units. It was the first census to be taken by mail, using lists of firms provided by the administrative records of other Federal agencies. Since 1963, administrative records also have been used to provide basic statistics for very small firms, reducing or eliminating the need to send them census questionnaires. The Enterprise Statistics Program, which publishes combined data from the economic census, was made possible with the implementation of the integrated census program in 1954.

The range of industries covered in the economic censuses has continued to expand. The census of construction industries began on a regular basis in 1967, and the scope of service industries was broadened in 1967, 1977, and 1987. The census of transportation began in 1963 as a set of surveys covering travel, transportation of commodities, and trucks, but expanded in 1987 to cover business establishments in several transportation industries. For 1992, these statistics are incorporated into a broadened census of transportation, communications, and utilities. Also new for 1992 is the census of financial, insurance, and real estate industries. This is part of a gradual expansion in coverage of industries previously subjected to government regulation.

The Survey of Minority-Owned Business Enterprises was first conducted as a special project in 1969 and was incorporated into the economic census in 1972 along with the Survey of Women-Owned Businesses.

An economic census has also been taken in Puerto Rico since 1909, in the Virgin Islands of the United States and Guam since 1958, and in the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands since 1982.

Statistical reports from the 1987 and earlier censuses provide historical figures for the study of long-term time series and are available in some large libraries. All of the census data published since 1967 are still available for sale on microfiche from the Census Bureau.

AVAILABILITY OF MORE FREQUENT ECONOMIC DATA

While the census provides complete enumerations every 5 years, there are many needs for more frequent data as well. The Census Bureau conducts a number of monthly, quarterly, and annual surveys, with the results appearing in publication series such as Current Business Reports (retail and wholesale trade and service industries), the Annual Survey of Manufactures, Current Industrial Reports, and the Quarterly Financial Report. Most of these surveys, while providing more frequent observations, yield less kind-of-business and geographic detail than the census. The County Business Patterns program offers annual statistics on the number of establishments, employment, and payroll classified by industry within each county.

SOURCES FOR MORE INFORMATION

More information about the scope, coverage, classification system, data items, and publications for each of the economic censuses and related surveys is published in the Guide to the 1992 Economic Census and Related Statistics. More information on the methodology, procedures, and history of the census will be published in the History of the 1992 Economic Census. Contact Customer Services for information on availability.

Assets and Expenditures Survey

GENERAL

This report, which was prepared in conjunction with the 1992 Census of Retail Trade, provides data on selected characteristics of retail firms, including measures of value produced, capital expenditures, depreciable assets, and operating expenses.

Data in this report are based on information collected from a probability sample of retail firms used to produce monthly national estimates of retail sales published in the Monthly Retail Trade Survey. A description of the survey methodology, estimating procedures, and concepts is presented in appendix A.

The 1992 statistics are summarized by kind-of-business classifications based on the Standard Industrial Classification Manual: 1987 (SIC). This report covers all retail operations in the Nation. All major kinds of business in which retailers operate are represented and are described in appendix A.

DOLLAR VALUES

All dollar values presented in this report are expressed in current dollars; i.e., 1992 data are expressed in 1992 dollars.

SPECIAL TABULATIONS AND UNPUBLISHED DATA

Special tabulations of data collected in the 1992 Assets and Expenditures Survey may be obtained, depending on availability of time and personnel, on computer disk, or in tabular form. The data will be in summary form and subject to the same rules prohibiting disclosure of confidential information (including name, address, kind of business, or other data for individual business establishments or companies) as are the regular publications.

Special tabulations are prepared on a cost basis. A request for a cost estimate, as well as exact specifications on the type and format of the data to be provided, should be directed to the Chief, Agriculture and Financial Statistics Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

To discuss a special tabulation before submitting specifications, call 301-763-7596.

Some estimates have not been published in this report because their sampling variability or imputation is so high as to make them potentially misleading. Some unpublished data can be derived directly by subtracting appropriate published data from their respective totals. However, the figures obtained by such subtraction would be subject to high sampling variability described above for unpublished kinds of business, and their use would be subject to the same hazards. Unpublished data may be obtained upon request from the Chief, Agriculture and Financial Statistics Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233.

Summary of Findings

Total sales in 1992 of retailers with payroll amounted to $2.0 trillion. The total cost of merchandise purchased for resale in 1992 (net of returns, allowances, and trade and cash discounts) totaled $1.3 trillion, or 68.6 percent of total sales. Beginning inventories for retailers in 1992 amounted to $239.5 billion, with ending inventories of $248.2 billion. Total sales, purchases, and inventories are integral parts of the measures of value produced summarized below. Note that some data presented in this report are not directly comparable to those in the 1987 report due to their inclusion of nonemployer businesses and changes to kind-of-business classifications.

MEASURES OF VALUE PRODUCED

The gross margin of retailers which represents total sales less cost of goods sold, amounted to $629.3 billion in 1992. Value added, derived by deducting from gross margin the cost of office supplies, stationery, postage, electricity, fuels, and packaging materials, amounted to $592.8 billion, representing 30.4 percent of total sales. Subtracting all other purchased services from value added yields net income produced at market prices of $411.9 billion, or 21.1 percent of total sales. This amount less depreciation, license fees, and taxes (excluding income, payroll, and sales taxes) represents net income produced at factor cost of $372.9 billion, or 19.1 percent of total sales.

As a percent of sales, measures of value produced were generally higher for nondurable goods than for durable goods in 1992. Nondurable goods retailers reported a gross margin of 35.3 percent of sales, compared with 26.8 percent for durable goods retailers. Net income produced at market prices amounted to 23.2 percent of sales for nondurable goods, compared to 17.4 percent for durable goods. Likewise, net income produced at factor cost was slightly higher for nondurable goods; 20.8 percent of sales, compared to 16.1 percent for durable goods.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

Total capital expenditures for depreciable assets of retailers amounted to $45.4 billion in 1992. Expenditures of $42.4 billion for new facilities, structures, and equipment in 1992 accounted for 93.4 percent of the total.

Capital expenditures for durable goods stores totaled $8.5 billion in 1992, compared to $36.9 billion for nondurable goods retailers.

DEPRECIABLE ASSETS

The gross (acquisition) value of depreciable assets of retailers amounted to $324.2 billion at the end of 1991. After adding capital expenditures and deducting assets sold, retired, scrapped, and destroyed, the year 1992 ended with the gross value of depreciable assets amounting to $359.5 billion.

OPERATING EXPENSES

Total operating expenses of retailers amounted to $546.2 billion in 1992. Durable goods retailers accounted for $161.0 billion and $385.2 billion were attributable to nondurable goods retailers. The following summarizes the findings for specific types of operating expenses.

Supplemental labor costs (employer cost for fringe benefits). Total supplemental labor costs for retailers amounted to $44.7 billion in 1992. Legally required supplemental labor costs such as employers' social security contributions, unemployment tax, workers' compensation insurance, and State disability insurance programs amounted to $27.7 billion, or 61.9 percent of the total. Voluntary labor costs, such as insurance premiums on hospital and medical plans, pension plans, and stock purchase plans, amounted to $17.0 billion, or 38.1 percent of total supplemental labor costs.

Depreciation charges. Depreciation and amortization charges against depreciable assets totaled $28.3 billion in 1992. Buildings and structures accounted for $8.1 billion, or 28.5 percent of the total, while machinery and equipment amounted to the remaining $20.2 billion, or 71.5 percent.

Lease and rental payments. Lease and rental payments in 1992 were $52.1 billion for retailers, representing 9.5 percent of total operating expenses. Of these payments, $48.8 billion were for buildings, other structures, and office space and $3.3 billion were for machinery and equipment.

Communication and utility expenses. Communication services purchased by retailers amounted to $5.8 billion, while purchased electricity totaled $17.4 billion and purchased fuels amounted to $2.5 billion. Note that these data represent only utilities which were purchased by firms in 1992, and exclude those utility costs which were part of normal lease and rental payments or franchise fees.

Other operating expenses. Other operating expenses of retailers in 1992 included $31.4 billion for advertising; $10.6 billion for purchased materials used in packaging, processing, shipping, and selling of goods; $10.0 billion for noncapitalized repairs to buildings, machinery, and equipment.

[1]Payroll data are not the same as in other reports from the 1992 Census of Retail Trade due to their sample basis and inclusion of auxiliaries.

[3]Sales data for SIC 596 is reported on a different basis than the 1992 Census of Retail Trade. For an explanation of this difference, see Method of Estimation in appendix A.

General Explanation

SAMPLE DESIGN

The*1992 Assets and Expenditures Survey* sample for retail trade consists of the same sampling units used to produce the monthly estimates of retail sales and inventories published in the Current Business Report Series BR, Monthly Retail Trade, for December 1992 and January 1993 and some sampling units from the November 1992 tabulations. A subset of these sampling units was also tabulated in the 1992 Annual Retail Trade Survey (ARTS). The sampling procedures for the monthly and annual retail trade surveys are described below.

The annual sample consists of all sampling units in the list component for December 1992 and January 1993 and all of the sampling units in the area component for November and December 1992 and January 1993 used to produce monthly estimates. The list component is comprised of a fixed panel of large businesses, most of which were selected with certainty (i.e., probability of selection = 1.0), and three rotating panels of smaller businesses. In the monthly survey, only one rotating panel in the list component and one in the area component, plus the list component's fixed panel, are canvassed in any given month. In the annual retail trade survey, two of the three rotating list panels, the fixed panel, and three rotating area panels are used.

The list sample component. The frame for the initial sample was constructed using information from the Standard Statistical Establishment List (SSEL) as updated to December 31, 1989. The frame consisted of two lists. One list was composed of companies (multiestablishment enterprises) as determined by the 1989 Company Organization Survey. The other list was composed of all retail Employer Identification Numbers (EINs) issued by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that (1) reported payroll in at least one quarter of 1989 and (2) were on the latest available IRS mailing file of Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA) taxpayers. Each list contained information on sales, payroll, employment, name and address, kind-of-business classification, type-of-operation classification, etc.

Because the frame consisted of a list of companies and a list of EINs (some of which were associated with companies on the first list), the sampling units consisted of both companies and EINs. If a company had total retail sales above a prescribed cutoff corresponding to its major kind of business, the company was selected into the sample with certainty. In this case, the company, which could consist of many EINs, was the sampling unit. Consequently, any new establishments that the company might acquire, even if under new or different EINs, were in the sample with certainty. All EINs associated with the company were then removed from the second list to avoid duplication on the frame. After all certainty companies had been selected, the unduplicated EIN frame was sampled.

All multiestablishment retail companies that were not selected with certainty and all single establishment firms were treated on an EIN basis; that is, the EIN was the sampling unit. The EINs were stratified according to their major kind of business and their estimated sales. A separate determination of certainty EINs was performed using the same cutoffs as for companies. After certainty EINs were selected, the remaining EINs were subjected to simple random sampling within strata. The sampling rates for these EINs varied between 1 in 3 to 1 in 1,000. Three such samples of EINs, called panels, were drawn.

For those EINs in the initial sample that were not classified in a kind-of-business category and for all EIN ''births'' after the frame creation, a two-phase selection procedure was used. EIN births, as used here, are new EINs recently assigned by the IRS that are also on the latest available IRS mailing list for FICA taxpayers. They may be assigned a kind-of-business classification by the Social Security Administration (SSA). In the first phase, births were stratified by kind of business (if available) and size (expected employment or quarterly payroll). A relatively large sample was drawn and canvassed for more reliable and detailed information on the amount of sales in two recent months and kind-of-business code.

Using this additional information, the cases selected in the first phase were restratified and the final sample drawn with probability-proportional-to-size sampling. The overall selection probabilities for the birth sampling are equivalent to those used in drawing the initial sample. Because of the lag in reporting births to the IRS and the SSA and the time needed to accomplish the two-phase birth-selection procedure carried out quarterly, births were actually tabulated in the sample about 9 to 12 months after they began operation.

The area sample component. The area sample component is a multistage sample. In the first stage, 12 primary sampling units (single counties or small groups of contiguous counties) were selected with certainty and 47 were drawn with probability proportional to size (population). Each selected primary sampling unit (PSU) was then subdivided into small land segments containing, at the time of selection, an average of about four retail stores each. Twelve subsamples of these land segments were drawn in each PSU at an overall rate of 1 in 1,000 (1 in 2,000 or 1 in 3,000 in the smallest PSU's). A different subsample, or panel, is included in the area sample for each month of the year. Each of these 12 panels include approximately 420 land segments. In the annual retail trade survey sample, three area sample panels are used. This reduces the overall sampling rate to 1 in 333 (1 in 667 or 1 in 1,000 in the smallest PSU's).

All retail establishments in these selected land segments are canvassed. Sufficient information (mainly concerning the EIN) is obtained to determine whether the business has had a chance of selection in the list sample component. If it has no EIN or if its EIN fails to match either the list sample's universe or the current FICA mailing list, it is tabulated in the area sample. The area sample used in the annual retail trade survey thus includes businesses without employees and employers, mainly recent EI "births", not represented in the list component. The same area sample was used in the assets and expenditures survey.

METHOD OF ESTIMATION

Most data on retail sales presented in this report are reproduced from the U.S. Summary and Nonemployer Statistics reports of the 1992 Census of Retail Trade. All other data are statistical estimates which were developed from summation of weighted information from the sampling units. The weights used are the inverses of the probabilities of selection (or sampling rate) of sampling units in the survey. Each weighted estimate was multiplied by a ratio of sales reported in the 1992 Census of Retail Trade to sales reported in the annual retail trade survey, except nonstore retailers.

In the 1992 Census of Retail Trade, establishments classified as nonstore retailers (SIC 596) excluded nonemployer direct sellers. In the 1992 Annual Retail Trade Survey, estimates were made for nonemployer direct sellers and these values were included in sales. Because of this difference, sales are obtained from the 1992 Annual Retail Trade Survey with no adjustment applied.

LIMITATIONS OF THE DATA

Because the estimates were based on a sample, exact agreement with the results that would be obtained from a complete census of retail establishments using the same enumeration procedures should not be expected.

However, because every retail operation in the United States had a chance of being selected for the sample, and because the probability of selection for each store in the sample was known, it was possible to estimate the sampling variability of the estimates made from the sample.

The sampling error, or standard error of the estimate, is a measure of variability among the estimates from all possible samples of the same size and design and, thus, is a measure of the precision with which an estimate from a particular sample approximates the results of a complete enumeration. The coefficient of variation is the standard error of the estimate divided by the value being estimated. It is expressed here as a percent. Note that measures of sampling variability, such as the standard error and the coefficient of variation, are estimates derived from the sample and are also subject to sampling variability.

The coefficients of variation permit certain confidence statements about the sample estimates. The particular sample used in this survey was one of a large number of samples of the same size that could have been selected using the same design. In about 2 out of 3 of these samples, the estimate would differ from a complete enumeration by less than the corresponding percentage for that estimate shown in the sampling variability columns. In about 9 out of 10 samples, the estimates would differ from the results of a complete enumeration by less than 1.65 times the percentages shown. To illustrate the computations involved in the above confidence statements as related to dollar volume sales estimates, assume that an estimate of sales is $10,750 million and that the coefficient of variation for this estimate is 1.8 percent, or 0.018. First obtain the standard error of the estimate by multiplying the estimate by the coefficient of variation. In this example, $10,750 million times 0.018 equals a standard error of $194 million. The 67 percent confidence interval for this example is $10,556 million to $10,944 million (i.e., $10,750 million plus or minus $194 million). Bounds for a 90 percent confidence interval are computed by adding or subtracting 1.65 times the standard error from the estimate; consequently, the 90 percent confidence interval ranges from $10,430 million to $11,070 million. If corresponding 67 percent confidence intervals were constructed for all possible samples of the same size and design, approximately 2 out of 3 (67 percent) intervals would contain the value obtained from a complete enumeration. Similarly, for 90 percent confidence intervals, 9 out of 10 of all possible intervals would contain the value obtained in a complete enumeration.

Although coefficients of variation have not been calculated for the percent estimates shown in this report, they will be less than:

$$\sqrt{CV^2\ (\text{VALUE IN DENOMINATOR}) + CV^2\ (\text{VALUE IN NUMERATOR})}$$

Coefficients of variation for all other published estimates are presented in table 13.

RESPONSE AND OTHER NONSAMPLING ERRORS

The coefficients of variation shown in this report do not measure biases which might arise from nonsampling errors such as the failure of respondents to submit correct figures on time for tabulation. Nonsampling errors can be attributed to many sources: inability to obtain information about all cases in the sample; response errors; definition difficulties; differences in the interpretation of questions; mistakes in recording or coding the data obtained; and other errors of collection, response, coverage, and estimation for missing data. These nonsampling errors also occur in complete censuses. Information is not available on the extent of bias that may be due to reporting errors. To minimize nonsampling biases, all reports were reviewed for completeness and consistency.

Various ratios were calculated from the data of each report (e.g., employer contributions for plans required by law to total annual payroll). All extreme and unusual ratios were verified or corrected where necessary. Some firms did not report prior to the closeout of this survey. Data were therefore imputed for these firms based on other available records for like firms in the same kind of business. Imputation amounted to about 15.9 percent for capital expenditures, 19.5 percent for depreciable assets, and 21.1 percent for operating expenses.

COMPARABILITY OF THE 1987 AND 1992 SURVEYS

The 1987 and 1992 surveys were conducted under similar conditions and procedures except for the following:

The 1987 publications for wholesale trade, retail trade, and service industries all presented data limited to employer business establishments. However, for 1992 the retail and service reports include data on nonemployer establishments. It should be noted that in the 1992 Census of Retail Trade, nonemployers accounted for only 2.8 percent of total sales. In the 1992 Census of Service Industries, nonemployers accounted for only 10.6 percent of total receipts.

It should also be noted that the 1987 publication used kinds of business definitions based on the Standard Industrial Classification Manual: 1972. This report uses kind-of-business definitions based on the Standard Industrial Classification Manual: 1987. For a list of significant changes in SIC codes from 1972 to 1987 see appendix C.

COMPARISONS WITH OTHER DATA

Data on sales presented in this report reflect those presented in other reports from the 1992 Census of Retail Trade. All other statistics shown are estimates developed from the sample of retailers participating in the 1992 Annual Retail Trade Survey. These items are comparable, in whole or in part, to statistics developed from other sources; notably the 1992 Census of Retail Trade, the Annual Capital Expenditures Survey, the national income and products accounts (NIPA) tables published in the Survey of Current Business, and Statistics of Income published by the Internal Revenue Service. Estimates from these varying sources may differ for reasons of sampling variability and methodology. Broad descriptions of the differences in concept or methodology which should be observed when comparing other data series to those from this report follow.

Annual Capital Expenditures Survey. This annual publication of the Bureau of the Census provides detailed information on investment in structures and equipment by nonfarm businesses. The data are used to improve the quality of monthly and quarterly economic indicators of investments and planned investments. These measures contribute to improved quarterly estimates of the gross domestic product from the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA). Differences in sampling methodology, independent processing and editing, variability in respondents completing the forms, and timing of the data collection contribute to variations in the estimates of capital expenditures.

Statistics of Income From the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). These annual publications and quarterly bulletins of the IRS provide information on business receipts, cost of goods sold, selected expense items, and depreciable assets compiled from the Federal income tax returns. However, the data are not in sufficient detail to provide income-produced measures comparable with those published in this report. The cost of goods sold in Statistics of Income includes costs of materials used in manufacturing; costs of goods purchased for resale; direct manufacturing; costs of goods purchased for resale; direct labor; and certain overhead expenses, such as rent, utilities, supplies, maintenance, and repairs. Cost of goods sold in the assets and expenditures survey excludes salaries and wages paid to the company's employees, cost of packaging materials, and office and other supplies. IRS data include nonemployers, unlike this report.

The company or subcompany level of reporting on income tax returns may not be the same as used for reporting in the assets and expenditures survey. For example, manufacturing and other establishments operated by firms which are primarily retailers may be included in the IRS data. Retail establishments operated by firms primarily engaged in other industries are not represented in the IRS statistics for retail trade.

National Income and Products Accounts From the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA). As part of the national income and product accounts, the BEA prepares estimates of value-added (also known as gross product originating or GPO) by industry. GPO can be defined equivalently either as industry gross output (sales plus change in business inventories) less consumption of materials and services purchased from other industries, or as the sum of the industry's factor payments (e.g., wages, interest, profits, etc.) and nonfactor costs (e.g., depreciation). The latter definition is the basis for the current dollar estimates for industry GPO prepared by BEA that may be compared with the census estimates. These estimates are published annually in table 6.1 of the Survey of Current Business.

The BEA GPO measure for retail trade relates conceptually to the value produced and operating expenses measures contained in this report in the following manner: GPO equals this report's value-added less lease and rental payments, cost of communication, advertising and repair services, other utilities, commissions to other firms, and subsidies; plus sales and other taxes collected directly from customers, and customs duties. GPO also equals this report's net income produced at market prices plus cost of uninsured casualty losses and bad debts losses less subsidies.

In addition, this report and the BEA series differ because the BEA factor payments and nonfactor costs that are summed to estimate industry GPO are obtained from a variety of data sources, including the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Internal Revenue Service, and the Bureau of the Census. The May 1993 Survey of Current Business provides a discription of the sources and methods used for the GPO estimates.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS

Sales. This item includes: merchandise sold for cash or credit; amounts received from customers for layaway purchases; receipts from rental or leasing of vehicles, equipment, instruments, tools, etc.; receipts for delivery, installation, maintenance, repair, alteration, storage and other services; and gasoline, liquor, tobacco, and other excise taxes which are paid by the manufacturer or wholesaler and passed along to the retailer. Sales are net after deductions for discounts and refunds and allowances for merchandise returned by customers. Trade-in allowances are not deducted.

Sales exclude sales and excise taxes collected directly from customers and paid directly to a local, State or Federal tax agency. Also excluded are receipts from customers for carrying or other credit charges, commissions from vending machine operators, and nonoperating income from such sources as investments and rental or sale of real estate. However, a portion of the data reported for capital expenditures, value of assets, depreciation and other operating expenses may pertain to real estate owned by the business and leased to others, even though corresponding data on sales exclude real estate lease receipts.

Data on sales presented in this report are reproduced from the U.S. Summary and Nonemployer Statistics reports of the 1992 Census of Retail Trade. Preliminary estimates of all data items in this report other than sales were multiplied by a ratio of sales compiled in the 1992 Census of Retail Trade to sales compiled in the 1992 Annual Retail Trade Survey. See Method of Estimation in appendix A for further explanation.

Purchases. Purchases represent the total cost, after deduction of returns, allowances, and discounts, of merchandise which was acquired in 1992 for resale, whether or not payment for the merchandise was made during the year. Purchases data include cash and credit purchases made at central offices and company warehouses, but exclude deliveries from central offices or warehouses to the retailer. Also included are: the cost of goods in transit where title has passed to the purchaser; amounts allowed for trade-ins; freight, delivery, and other transportation costs; and import duties (if paid separately).

Companies engaged in both manufacturing and retail operations were asked to report purchases at the cost value of intercompany transfers from their plants or warehouses to their retail stores. These companies were also requested to report the cost of outside purchases.

Purchases exclude: expenditures for containers, wrapping, packaging, and other supplies or equipment intended for company use rather than for resale; the cost of raw materials or parts purchased for manufacture into a finished product; and goods included in the purchase price of a business. Also excluded are liquor and tobacco tax stamps, which would be included under operating expenses.

Data presented in this report on purchases were collected in the 1992 Annual Retail Trade Survey.

Inventories. Inventories include stocks of goods (valued at cost) held for sale through retail stores. Methods of valuation may vary according to the accounting practices of the firms.

Inventories exclude the value of fixtures, furnishings, equipment, and supplies used in store and warehouse operations and not held for resale.

Inventories were reported as of the close of the calendar year, except for some businesses which used a fiscal year for accounting purposes for which no adjustment was made. All inventory data presented in this report were collected in the 1992 Annual Retail Trade Survey.

Measures of Value Produced

1. Cost of goods sold. This item was calculated for each firm in the survey by adding all purchases of merchandise (net of returns, allowances, and discounts but including charges from freight, insurance, etc.) during the year to the beginning-of-year inventory, then deducting the end-of-year inventory from the total. Firms were instructed to exclude the cost of containers, wrapping, packaging, and selling supplies from the cost of purchases but to report these items under ''operating expenses.''

2. Gross margin. This item represents sales less cost of goods sold. Gross margin is equivalent to the cost of all materials (as distinguished from goods to be resold) and services provided in retail establishments whether provided by the retail firm itself or purchased by it from others.

3. Value added. Value added is the gross margin (as defined above) less the cost of containers, supplies, materials, fuel and other energy.

4. Net income produced at market prices. This item represents value added less lease and rental payments; cost of communication, advertising, repair, legal, accounting, and computer related services; and amounts set aside for bad debt losses and other losses not compensated by insurance.
5. Net income produced at factor cost. This item represents net income produced at market prices less depreciation, license fees, and taxes other than income taxes. It includes payroll, employer contributions to the FICA, and unemployment insurance.

Operating expenses. The types of operating expenses requested on the report form are:

1. Annual payroll. Payroll includes all salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses, and allowances for vacation, holiday, and sick leave paid to employees in 1992 before payroll deductions. For corporations, it includes amounts paid to officers and executives; for unincorporated businesses, it does not include payments to or withdrawals from profits by owners or partners. (This figure does not include employer contributions to plans required by law and other plans besides vacation, holiday, and sick leave.)
2. Employer costs for programs required by law. This item includes all programs required under Federal and State legislation such as FICA, unemployment tax, workers' compensation, and State disability payments.
3. Employer costs for other fringe benefits. This item includes programs not specifically required by Federal or State legislation, such as life and health insurance premiums for employees.
4. Depreciation charges. This item includes depreciation and amortization charges against depreciable assets owned during 1992. Amounts representing tax-exempt organizations, if not reported, were estimated even though depreciation accounts may not be maintained.
5. Taxes. Includes all taxes and license fees paid during 1992 (excluding income and payroll taxes). It includes tobacco and liquor tax stamps, fines, and property taxes. It excludes direct payments to government tax agencies for sales and other taxes collected directly from customers.
6. Lease and rental payments. These are payments for lease or rental of buildings, machinery and equipment. Payments for machinery and equipment include use of production machinery, office equipment, computer systems, passenger cars, trucks, materials handling equipment, and all other types of machinery and equipment.
7. Cost of office supplies, stationery, and postage.
8. Cost of purchased communication services. This item includes cost of telephone, data transmission, telegraph, telex, teletype and all other communications services purchased in 1992.
9. Cost of purchased electricity. Some businesses included this expense as part of building/office lease payments.
10. Cost of purchased fuels. This includes fuels for heating, power, or generation of electricity, also sometimes included in lease payments.
11. Cost of other utilities. This includes all utilities except purchased fuels and electricity, also sometimes included in lease payments.
12. Cost of materials. This includes purchases of containers, wrapping, packing and selling supplies used in packaging, processing, shipping, and selling of goods. Some businesses, due to recordkeeping, may have included some of these costs as part of merchandise purchases.
13. Legal services purchased from other firms.
14. Accounting services purchased from other firms.
15. Computer related services. This item includes data processing and other computer services purchased from other firms. It excludes prepackaged software.
16. Cost of purchased repair services. This item includes the total amount paid for noncapitalized repairs to buildings, structures, machinery, and equipment such as motor vehicles and office space. It excludes cost of repairs to leased buildings and equipment covered by regular lease payments.
17. All other operating expenses. This includes inventory storage and shipping costs, insurance expense (nonemployee), uninsured casualty losses, and bad debt losses. It excludes interest on loans and sales excise taxes.

Capital expenditures. Capital expenditures refer to all costs actually incurred in 1992 which were chargeable to the depreciable assets accounts of a firm. These costs are of the type for which depreciation or amortization accounts are ordinarily maintained.

All items obtained through a capital lease on or after January 1, 1992, are included. Excluded are capital expenditures made by a firm for property which it leased to others as part of a capital lease arrangement.

Included are expenditures for new and used structures (including those under construction at the end of 1992), fixtures and equipment, additions, major alterations and improvements to existing facilities, and capitalized repairs. Also included are expenditures made by a firm for structures which, on completion, were or are to be sold or leased back to that firm. (The value of trade-ins are not deducted.)

Excluded are expenditures for land; items chargeable as current operating expenses such as cost of maintenance, repairs, supplies, etc.; expenditures for locations primarily engaged in activities other than retail; and expenditures for goodwill, patents, or copyrights. Also excluded are capital expenditures (except capital leases) made by owners of property rented or leased to the surveyed firms, but included are capital expenditures made to property leased from others (leasehold improvements).

Cost of assets acquired during 1992 by tax-exempt organizations, if not reported, were estimated even though depreciation accounts may not be maintained.

Gross value of depreciable assets. This amount is the acquisition value (original cost) of all assets for which depreciation and amortization accounts are ordinarily maintained. Included are all improvements and new construction ''in progress'' but not completed at the end of 1992 and the gross value of machinery and equipment owned by retail firms but leased or rented to other firms except under capital lease arrangements. Excluded are land and depletable assets (timber, mineral rights, etc.), nondepreciated assets (cash, inventories, etc.), and all intangible assets such as goodwill, patents, or copyrights.

Cost of assets acquired by tax-exempt organizations, if not reported, were estimated even though depreciation accounts may not be maintained.

Deductions from depreciable assets. This amount represents the value of depreciable assets sold, retired, scrapped, or destroyed during 1992, and other adjustments (except depreciation).

Legal form of organization. The legal form of organization for firms in this survey was based on the response to the organizational status inquiry on other economic census or survey forms as well as administrative records of other Federal agencies. However, tax-exempt organizations were treated as corporations in applicable tables.

Auxiliary establishments. In consideration of recordkeeping practices and for consistency with the related sales data collected for 1992 in the annual business surveys, each company in this survey was asked to include those auxiliary locations whose primary functions were to manage, administer, service, or support the activities of the main establishments covered by the report. Data presented in other reports from the 1992 Census of Retail Trade exclude such auxiliaries. Capital expenditures and other data for auxiliaries alone are released as part of the 1992 Enterprise Statistics program.

KIND-OF-BUSINESS CLASSIFICATIONS

Retail trade, SIC major groups 52 through 59 in the SIC manual, includes establishments primarily engaged in selling merchandise for personal or household consumption and rendering services incidental to the sale of the goods. Exceptions to this general rule are lumber yards; paint, glass, and wallpaper stores; typewriter stores; stationery stores; and gasoline service stations, which sell to both the general public for personal and household consumption and to businesses. These types of stores are included in retail trade even if a higher proportion of their sales is made to other than individuals for personal or household consumption. However, such establishments that sell their products only to institutional or industrial users and to other wholesalers and establishments that sell similar merchandise for use exclusively by business establishments are classified in wholesale trade.

Other important characteristics of retail trade establishments are that they are usually places of business; they are engaged in activities to attract the general public to buy; they buy or receive as well as sell merchandise; they may process their products, although processing is incidental or subordinate to selling; and they are considered as retail in the trade. Not all of these characteristics need be present and some are modified by trade practice.

Establishments covered by the census were assigned kind-of-business classifications according to the industry classifications defined in the 1987 SIC manual. When a more detailed classification than defined in the SIC manual was needed, additional kinds of business were identified within a SIC industry.

In general, retail establishments were classified according to the principal lines of commodities sold (groceries, hardware, etc.) or the usual trade designation (drug store, cigar store, etc.).

Kind-of-business classifications are not interchangeable with commodity classifications; most businesses sell several kinds of commodities. The kind-of-business code generally reflects either the individual commodity or the commodity group which is the primary source of the establishment's business. Thus, the classification of establishments by kind of business generally does not make it possible to determine either the number of establishments handling a particular commodity or the sales of that commodity. For example, the food stores classification excludes stores selling food if the sale of food is not the primary source of receipts; moreover, even though stores are classified as food stores, some of their receipts may be derived from the sale of nonfood products. (Information on the extent to which various broad groups of commodities or merchandise lines are sold by different kinds of business is available in the 1992 Census of Retail Trade report, Merchandise Line Sales, RC92-S-3.)

Building Materials and Garden Supplies Stores (SIC Major Group 52)

This major group includes retail establishments primarily engaged in selling lumber and other building materials; paint, glass, and wallpaper; hardware; nursery stock; lawn and garden supplies; and manufactured (mobile) homes. It includes lumber and other building materials dealers and paint, glass, and wallpaper stores selling to the general public, even if sales to contractors account for a larger proportion of total sales; these establishments are known as retail in the trade. Establishments primarily selling these products but not selling to the general public are classified in wholesale trade.

Lumber and other building materials dealers (SIC 521). Establishments primarily engaged in selling lumber, or lumber and a general line of building materials, to the general public. While these establishments may also sell to contractors, they are known as retail in the trade, even if sales to contractors account for a higher proportion of the sales. The lumber they sell may include rough and dressed lumber, flooring, molding, doors, sashes, frames, and other millwork. The building materials may include roofing, siding, shingles, wallboard, paint, brick, tile, cement, sand, gravel, and other building materials and supplies. For lumber yards, at least 32 percent of sales must be from the sale of lumber and millwork. Hardware is often an important line of retail lumber and building materials dealers. Also included in this group are home centers. These are retail establishments that sell both lumber and building materials and hardware. Additionally, they must sell at least 5 of the following merchandise lines: housewares, tools (power and/or hand), floor coverings, electrical supplies, kitchen cabinets, plumbing and bath supplies, lawn and garden products, paints and/or sundries, windows and/or doors, roofing, wallcoverings, ceiling products and materials, lawn and garden supplies, and appliances. Establishments not selling to the general public or known in the trade as wholesale are classified in SIC 503.

Paint, glass, and wallpaper stores (SIC 523). Establishments primarily engaged in selling paint, glass, and wallpaper, or any combination of these lines, to the general public. While these establishments may also sell to contractors, they are known as retail in the trade, even if sales to contractors account for a higher proportion of the sales. Establishments which do not sell to the general public are classified in wholesale trade.

Hardware stores (SIC 525). Establishments primarily engaged in selling a number of basic hardware lines, such as tools, builders' hardware, locks and other security hardware, paint and glass, housewares, household appliances, cutlery, and building materials, no one of which accounts for 50 percent or more of the sales of the establishments.

Retail nurseries, lawn and garden supply stores (SIC 526). Establishments primarily engaged in selling trees, shrubs, other plants, seeds, bulbs, mulches, soil conditioners, fertilizers, pesticides, garden tools, and other garden supplies to the general public. These establishments primarily sell products purchased from others, but may sell some plants which they grow themselves. Establishments primarily engaged in growing trees, shrubs, other plants, seeds, and bulbs are classified in SIC major group 01, and those growing Christmas trees are classified in SIC major group 08.

The stores included in this group are known as department stores, variety stores, general merchandise stores, catalog showrooms, warehouse clubs, and general stores. Establishments primarily engaged in selling used general merchandise are classified in SIC 593, and those selling general merchandise by mail, vending machine, or direct selling are classified in SIC 596.

Department stores (SIC 531). Retail stores normally having 50 employees or more, having sales of apparel and soft goods combined amounting to 20 percent or more of total sales, and selling each of the following groups of merchandise:

1. Household linens, dry goods, furniture, homefurnishings, appliances, and radio and TV sets;

2. A general line of apparel for the family.

To qualify as a department store, sales of each of the lines listed above must be less than 80 percent of total store sales. An establishment with total sales of $10 million or more is classified as a department store even if sales of one of the merchandise lines listed above exceed the maximum percent of total sales, provided that the sales of the other group is $1 million or more. Relatively few stores are included in this classification as a result of this special rule and most of those which are would otherwise have been classified in the apparel group (SIC major group 56).

Variety stores (SIC 533). Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of a variety of merchandise in the low and popular price ranges. Sales usually are made on a cash-and-carry basis, with the open selling method of display and customer selection of merchandise. These stores generally do not carry a complete line of merchandise, are not departmentalized, do not carry their own charge service, and do not deliver merchandise.

Miscellaneous general merchandise stores (SIC 539). Establishments primarily engaged in the retail sale of a general line of apparel, dry goods, hardware, housewares or homefurnishings, groceries, and other lines in limited amounts. Stores selling commodities covered in the definition for department stores but normally having less than 50 employees, and stores usually known as country or general stores are included here. 1992 CENSUS OF RETAIL TRADE
INSTRUCTIONS

CENSUS OF RETAIL TRADE

The Census of Retail Trade includes establishments engaged in the following:

- selling merchandise for personal or household consumption and
- rendering services incidental to the sale of the goods.

If you are NOT engaged in this kind of business, DESCRIBE your business or activity IN ITEM 7 AND COMPLETE the report as accurately as possible.

DEFINITION OF ESTABLISHMENT

An establishment is a single physical location at which business is conducted. This includes all selling and service locations of a company and any other facilities such as warehouses, administrative offices, etc. This report should include data for all establishments (locations) operated by this company during 1992. Locations with no paid employees (such as unmanned warehouses) are not considered separate establishments.

COMPANIES WITH MORE THAN ONE ESTABLISHMENT

If this company operated more than one establishment (location) under the same Employer Identification (EI) Number shown in the label (or as corrected in item 1) at the end of 1992:

- Item 2 — Enter the location of your headquarters.
- Items 3 through 14c — Report the combined data for the entire company.
- Item 14d — Provide information separately for each establishment, including headquarters. List the location of your headquarters first.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

- This report should cover calendar year 1992. If book figures are not available, estimates are acceptable.
- If the establishment stopped operating before January 1, 1992, indicate action and date in item 3b and return the form.
- If the establishment stopped operating during 1992, i.e., it was closed, sold, or leased to another company, complete the report for the portion of 1992 that the establishment was operating.
- If you have any questions or if any communication regarding this report is necessary, be sure to reference the 11-digit Census File Number (CFN) printed on the address label.
- If additional space is necessary to complete any item, use the remarks section at the end of the form (if applicable) or attach a separate sheet. If extra sheets are added, write the CFN and the item number at the top of each additional page.
- Please make a photocopy of your completed form and retain that copy in your files.
- We estimate that it will take from 12 minutes to 2 hours to complete this questionnaire, with 51 minutes being the average time. This includes time to read instructions, assemble and review information, and record answers on the questionnaire. If you have any comments regarding these estimates, send them to the Associate Director for Management Services, Paperwork Reduction Project (0607-0719), Room 2027, FB-3, Bureau of the Census, Washington, DC 20233; or to the Office of Management and Budget, Paperwork Reduction Project (0607-0719), Washington, DC 20503.
